TEXAS TO REDUCE RATES ON EXPRESS

Commission Sets Hearing For September 10 and Notices Companies.

Austin, Tex., July 17.—Steps were taken today by the Texas railroad commission which may result in a material reduction in express rates in Texas. The commission today issued a notice of hearing to the express companies doing business in Texas that it will take up and consider on Tuesday, September 10, applications looking to the issuance of an order abolishing all so-called joint line express charges for express shipments, and prescribing that express rates and charges shall in all cases be assessed upon present basis fixed for single line shipments; that is, shipments handled by one express company, regardless of the number of different companies handling the business.

The commission proposes to cancel the entire rule four of express classification one which provides for increased charges where shipments are handled by more than one company. This is an important reduction, especially in view of recent reductions ordered by the interstate commerce commission on express shipments.

BOSS RULE IS THEME OF SPEAKERS AT HIGHLAND PARK ANTI-RING MEETING

Candidates Grill Ring Machine; Increasing Water Rates Is Referred to.

Although the crowd was somewhat smaller, those of the voters residing in the Highland park precinct who gathered Tuesday night in Gray's store on Federal street, made up much in enthusiasm. The anti ring candidates as a whole met the voters for the first time, and on the ground that their fight was a movement against ring domination and an effort to free the county from the boss, made a plea for the Highland park voters.

R. M. Reed, campaign manager for the party, opened the talkfest by saying something about the free born right of every man running for office without being put to the necessity of first asking permission from a boss or ring.

R. V. Bowden, candidate for county judge, was the next speaker. "The fact that you are out here," he began, "indicates that you are interested in what is going on in this political campaign; that you are interested in good government, in clean government, and in the perpetuity of the institutions of this country. Unless you are, the country is in a mighty bad way."

"The perpetuity of the institutions of the country depend upon the purity of the politics in the municipalities in every state, and the duty rests upon you to interest yourselves and lead your aid, and vote to remedy the conditions which here are admittedly bad. It requires more than your sympathy, it requires your vote in the ballot box, and it is your duty to go to the ballot box and register a vote against ring rule."

"Boss rule and ring rule is the curse of every community in which it exists. He declared that the time has passed when a man aspiring for an office would have to go to Kelly first to get permission before running."

Sixshooters at Polls. He gave his experiences four years ago when he was chairman of the executive committee, and detailed circumstances connected with the selection of election judges. He said that before he and the ring could come to any understanding, it was agreed that it would approve the judges he had appointed.

"On the day of the election," he continued, "the ring tried to break this agreement. I remember there was some trouble in one of the precincts, and I was there down there. I took off my coat so that no one would think I had a gun. In passing from Overland street to the polling booth, which was 150 feet north, I passed nine sixshooters. They were there to intimidate the voters."

In speaking of the county judge's office he said that it was one of the most important offices in the county, for the important offices of the county, had the handling of the county funds, and the expending of them for roads and bridges.

Says Kelly Is Boss. "Kelly is the boss," said the judge, "and it does not matter to him whether he holds office or not. But he does not change the county judge very often. The county judge is the business agent of the county. He has the practical holding and handling of the funds of the county. The taxes collected he can spend on roads and bridges and buildings. He spends money here and there and elsewhere, and every place it is spent the man getting in and under obligation. The county judge has the appointment of road overseers, ditch bosses, and working in conjunction with the ring, everything he puts out is in the shape of a political mortgage which is foreclosed at election time. "They change the sheriff's office," asserted Mr. Bowden, "some, because that is not so important to them, and it is done to fool the people. They also change the county attorney for the same reason."

Why Roads Were Built. "You may remember the building of the county roads, and they were not built until the favored few of the ring had acquired land, or unimpeachable options on land either down or up the valley. Some of them settled on the island, and immediately there was discovered a crying need for a road down that way, and later a bridge. At Canutillo they built two bridges."

Henry Kelly, Park Pittman and George Huffman are the inside circle of the ring. The three constitute the cozs on the main shaft. Judge Kellar is the nearest part he is the big wheel. Over here is a little wheel just buzzing around; that is Billy Bridges. It revolves a great deal, but that is like Billy; he talks a great deal and does not say anything."

Owen Discusses the Machine. Charles Owen, candidate for the legislature, said: "We need your support for every man on the ticket. I would like to pay my respects to Mr. Kelly for the statements that he made the other night, but the time is too short. I will do this at some other time."

"They are saying," he continued, "that we are slandering him. That is only the despairing cry of discredited politicians; the last refuge of the men who see the handwriting on the wall."

"We expect to discuss the issues of this campaign as long as we are candidates. There are a great many here talking of a split ticket. They are going to vote for Kelly because he has come to them and said that he has had only one term in office. My friends, Walter Howe only had one term in office, and it was the work of Edwards that had most to do with his defeat."

"Strikes at the machine. Every ring officeholder is responsible first to Kelly, and secondly to the people who voted for him. If any illegal act is committed, it is not done so much for the benefit of the doer, as for those on the ticket. If the fraudulent poll tax receipts have been issued, they were issued for the benefit of all of them, not for the benefit of the man who issued them. That is what we are fighting. The good people of this community ought to go to the polls on July 27 and register a protest against such a system."

Fighting the System. "No Mexican can go to work on the county roads or any road, unless he has a poll tax receipt and unless he pledges himself to support the ring. There is not a single one of those men who would dare to say that he is going to vote for the anti ring ticket, because if he did, he would lose his job. There was Ed Bryant, who was too honest to tell a lie to save Kelly, and for that they called him a traitor. I took off my nounced on the anti ring ticket, they fired him. They thought it was such a heinous offense for one to run for office without their permission that they had him indicted."

Ike Alderete Speaks. Ike Alderete, candidate for reelection as district court clerk, was then introduced. Ike stated that he was appearing before an American audience for the second time to make a speech in English. "For many years," he said, "I have been a short stop for the ring. They used to push me forward, and if there was anything said, it was directed against me so that Park, Huffman and Kelly might slip into office without being noticed."

"I have been as faithful to that ring as a dog to its master; that is, until a year and a half ago. Kelly came to me in my office last October and said: 'Ike, you can't run. I want you to stay where you are. Who are the boys?' I asked: 'I am an American citizen,' I told Kelly, 'and have the right to run for office. I am going to stay in the race, I am going to beat that bunch, and I am going to beat them in April.'"

Trouble, Says Jackson. Dan Jackson, candidate for judge of the 34th district court, when introduced, declared:

"We have been warned that there is going to be trouble on election day below the tracks. We will have a long ball, and it is one of the tricks of the ring to block the polls."

"Now the only thing that has been urged in the meetings held by these others," he continued, "is that we are slandering him. I said that we are slandering him, and they are slandering me. I am going to beat that bunch, and I am going to beat them in April."

Wanted a Look at the Books. "Then in one of their meetings, judge Caldwell got up and asked for the reason why the ring should be put out of office. We gave them those reasons the first meeting we had. The first one was that they had held the office for 20 years. We wanted a chance to get a look at the books. The El Paso Herald has carried on a campaign for a year trying to get those people to have their books examined so that people could get a look at them."

To Move Reservation. "We stood for the moving of the reservation, an did not endorse candidates who own houses on Broadway. The county ring and the city ring are dovetailed."

"The other night Kelly got up and boasted that they were pumping 1,000,000 more gallons of water than could be used. The water rates have not gone down. The law of supply and demand ought to regulate that. We save them in this election or any other, for that matter, unless they go down below the tracks and snare in the Mexican vote. Has the Blues.

"I have had the blues. When I came to El Paso, I brought two boys. I was impressed with the prospects for a bright future for the city. I am now. But after the speeches the other night, giving me the impression that if Park Pittman, Kelly, or George Huffman would pass away, the country would go to the boys now glimmering. I did not know what to think. So I was very much encouraged by that organization of the Young Men's Democratic club, Ballard Caldwell called together the young spirits, to get them in training so that they can take up the task when the time comes and everything will run along smoothly."

Fair Election Promised. "I was asked by some why we were in this race. They said that if we got more votes than the ring, the ring would steal the election from us. Through the assistance of Mr. Ware we have secured a fair election this time. The ring can't steal it. It is up to you to complete the question of a free vote."

"I have been told that the ring proposed to raise $30,000 to purchase this election. That I cannot credit, for it is an insult to the good people of this community. There are 8500 voters in this county, and there are enough honest men among them to vote their honest convictions."

TRIED TO KILL SELF THREE TIMES BEFORE

This Is Evidence of Mrs. Morrow, Accused of Killing Husband.

Chicago, Ill., July 17.—Mrs. Rene B. Morrow, charged with the murder of her husband, Charles D. Morrow, an inventor, yesterday took the witness stand in her own behalf. She appeared nervous and began her story in a faltering voice. Mrs. Morrow said the first she knew of her husband's death was on the morning of December 28, when his body was found on the rear porch of their home. "My husband attempted to commit suicide three times," said Mrs. Morrow. "Mrs. Morrow identified a revolver as her husband's. She admitted having had a dispute with her husband the night he was shot."

"I was tired and he swore at me that night," said Mrs. Morrow. "He had been drinking and was quarrelsome. Nearly every argument," continued Mrs. Morrow, "we had was over his drinking. When I left my husband that night I went to my room and he went to his. Later I read my Bible for awhile. I heard a voice outside calling, but I did not go out. I went to the kitchen and turned out a light I had left burning and then went to Mrs. Wood's room, where I remained for an hour and a half. "Did you shoot and kill Charles D. Morrow, your husband?" asked attorney Erbstein. "No," replied Mrs. Morrow. "I loved my husband, and there was nothing inhuman about that ever came between us," said Mrs. Morrow dramatically at the close of her direct examination. "She was cross examined at length by assistant state's attorney Northrup who expects to conclude with the witness today."

O. Henry on Imitations

O. Henry wrote a story once about an American in one of the South American countries, who started an ice plant. Somehow the thing wouldn't work, so he exhibited a huge cake of glass as being manufactured ice.

Why not? It looked like ice. Of course, it was not cooling or refreshing, or thirst-quenching—but until one tried to make ice water with it, or cool with it, it was just as good as the original.

This is a perfectly good illustration of the value to you of those just-as-good imitations of, and substitutes for, Coca-Cola. They look like Coca-Cola; but there the similarity stops. You might just as well buy glass for ice as to hope to get from an imitation the delicious, refreshing, cooling and thirst-quenching results that are yours in every glass of Coca-Cola. So, do as the South American natives did—look at the substitute that the eager clerk assures you is just as good as the original, but don't waste time, money and hopes by tasting it. Or, if the soda fountain man is so far gone as to completely barter his honesty for an extra penny of profit by selling you an imitation for the genuine, or hoping to deceive you by similarity in name or nickname, cross that place off your buying list; for you may take it for granted that once a substitutor always and altogether a substitutor.
